VOICE APPLICATION DEVELOPMENT METHODOLOGY

Mark Phillips

Jonathan Cook

Pericles Haleftiras

Lizanne Kaiser

Jon Thomas Layton

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of utilizing one or more generic software components to develop a specific voice application. The generic software components are configured to enable development of a specific voice application. The generic software components include a generic dialog asset that is stored in a repository. The method further comprises the step of deploying the specific voice application in a deployment environment, wherein the deployment environment includes the repository.